BUSINESS CHALLENGE

WHY OCCUPATIONAL HEALTH AND SAFETY?

With the growing industrialisation and the transport of goods across the globe, work related injuries, ill health and fatality is one of the greatest challenges facing us today. In 2016/2017 in the UK alone, 31.2 million working days were lost due to work related illness and workplace injury. This equates to an estimated cost of GBP 14.9 billion per year.

Industry faces the challenge of understanding and prioritizing the occupational health and safety hazards and risks present in the business processes. It has long been felt that an internationally acceptable standard for systematically managing these hazards and risks and to improve performance has been required. The International Organization for Standardization (ISO) has adopted various existing Health and Safety standards (such as BS OHSAS 18001) and in 2018 published ISO 45001, which specifies the requirements for a management system to protect against and reduce the likelihood of the occurrence of risks.

SOLUTION

It is essential that all managerial and non-managerial staff are made fully aware of the hazards in the workplace and the risks arising out of these hazards, as well as of the methods to control them. It is also important that all employees are made fully aware of the applicable laws in their country and their provisions as applicable to their area of operation and of the consequences of not complying with these requirements. Formal training of employees is a positive step in this direction.

THE AIM

The aim of this course is to provide delegates with the knowledge and skills required to perform first, second and third-party audits of Occupational Health & Safety management systems against ISO 45001, in accordance with ISO 19011 or ISO 17021, as applicable. All references in this document to ISO standards are to the current versions unless stated otherwise.

Delegates who successfully complete this CQI and IRCA Certified ISO 45001 Lead Auditor (OHSAS) Training course (within three years prior to applying to become a certified auditor) will satisfy the training requirements for initial certification as an IRCA OHSAS auditor.

WHO CAN ATTEND

All those who are responsible for implementing, maintaining and improving an OH&SMS according to the ISO 45001:2018 Standard must attend this course.

The course is certified by CQI-IRCA.

PREREQUISITES

Recommended prior knowledge: Delegates must have successfully completed a CQI-IRCA Certified Lead Auditor Training Course (40 hrs) on any subject with Annex SL Framework based ISO Standards. Additionally, they are recommended to undergo a Foundation training course on OHSMS (FD127 OHSMS ISO 45001:2018 Foundation).

Alternatively, delegates are expected to acquire adequate knowledge on the following:

- Familiarity with the requirements of ISO 45001
- Be conversant with the following Occupational Health and Safety management principles and concepts
- The purpose and benefits of a Hazard identification and risk assessment
- The principles of risk assessment and analysis
- Typical OH&S strategies
- OHSMS performance metrics, monitoring and performance measurement

BENEFITS

01 An appreciation of the importance of OHSMS in business operations.

03 An understanding of the approach towards implementing the OHSMS

02 Knowledge of the requirements of the ISO 45001 Standard

04 A reinforcement of their understanding of the requirements of ISO 50001:2018

PROGRAMME METHODS

The programme uses a mixture of taught sessions, interactive group discussions and exercises to achieve its aims. The practical exercises are based on procedures and work instructions that could equally apply to many different enterprises.

IN-HOUSE COURSES

Courses can also be conducted in-house at your premises if a sufficient number of participants are available. For more details, contact our nearest branch or office. Special Groups can be organised for homogenous groups at different hierarchy levels and for different durations depending on your organisation's needs.

EVALUATION & CERTIFICATION

There will be two types of assessments. Continuous assessment, where all participants will be assessed and awarded marks in each session on various competences and skills gained, including relevant soft skills. There will be a formal written examination at the end of the course. All the delegates who successfully complete both the continuous assessment and final examination will be awarded the "Certificate of Achievement" and other participants will be awarded a "Certification of Attendance".
