

ASSET MANAGEMENT SYSTEM TRAINING

Maximise the lifecycle return on capital investment assets

BUSINESS CHALLENGE

Maximizing the lifecycle return on investment for capital assets, without compromising on safety or risking the environment is critical in today's complex multi-stakeholder situations. How can you demonstrate you have embedded asset management best practice and differentiate your organization from others?

WHAT IS ISO 55001?

The ISO 55000 series of standards has brought the most successful publicly available specification: PAS 55 to organizations globally, bringing consistent terminology, guidance and a robust management systems framework built upon 24 best practice aspects to the discipline of asset management. ISO 55001 Asset Management System (AMS) implementation drives cost efficiency, value creation and risk management across the lifecycle of assets, from their design and fabrication or construction through commissioning, operations, maintenance, modification and renewal to their eventual disposal or decommissioning.

ISO 55001 ASSET MANAGEMENT SYSTEM (AMS) TRAINING

- Understand the context of the organization and its stakeholders' needs and expectations
- Engage leadership in resourcing and communicating a Strategic Asset Management Plan
- Establish an asset management policy that is consistent with organizational objectives
- Define, document and communicate roles, responsibilities and authorities
- Plan and set asset management objectives and how to achieve them in light of identified risks and opportunities
- Allocate resources, define and document competencies internally and externally (such as when using outsourced providers)
- Coordinate information management to give a single, shared view of the asset that enables clear communication, knowledge transfer and activity tracking for those working under the control of the organization (whether they be employees, contractors, outsourced providers and other stakeholders involved in designing, constructing, operating, maintaining or otherwise managing assets)
- Manage and plan for changing situations in the asset portfolio
- Measure and evaluate asset management performance
- Audit and review the effectiveness of the AMS to ensure continual improvement
